ONE TRAIN MAN
TALKED TO HOLD UPS

Express Messenger Tells of His Interview with the Victims—Robbers Escaped in a Boat Down River.

Calgary, June 25.—The quest for the robbers who boldly held up a No. 97 train, and just east of the spot where Bill Miner made his sensational hold-up a few years ago, is not over in earnest. Yesterday morning Sergeant Wilson, Corporal Martin and Constable Taberner, with a detachment, left here for the scene of the robbery. Before leaving Calgary they were joined by the superintendent from Maple Creek and four constables who have been picked up at various places along the line, and by daylight this morning the special train which is carrying them from here will have been on the ground ready for action.

Additional information of the hold-up was given by one of the men of the No. 97 train, who was carrying them from here to the east of Dufferin, and when at a point some five miles east of Dufferin, they were ordered to stop by the robbers. The train was carrying them from here to the east of Dufferin, and when at a point some five miles east of Dufferin, they were ordered to stop by the robbers. every tenant. The entrance will be through an open court facing on Victoria avenue. A driveway will lead up a circular drive around a fountain, and a lot of flowers to a wide porch, with a large marble column. The entrance doors, together with the flanking side-panels of glass, in the "Old Colonial" style will be 14 feet wide, of glass, and lead into a vestibule, a large entrance hall with a richly decorated ceiling, entirely surrounded with polished mahogany having in the right a large inglenook recess with fireplace and space for writing table. On the opposite side of the hall another recess, similarly paneled and finished, will form an ante-chamber to the "Office" which there will be on the ground floor. Inner vestibule doors similar to the front doors will connect to the main entrance.

"How away?" he shouted back. On another demand from the hold-up's gruff voice he opened the door. He had not long to wait, for as soon as he saw the door he saw the leader of the gang look in with the aid of a dark lantern. Then he saw that the man was not a stranger.

He obeyed instantly, wondering what the next move would be. He had not long to wait, for as soon as he saw the door he saw the leader of the gang look in with the aid of a dark lantern. Then he saw that the man was not a stranger.

McCrack stayed strictly inside after that, not caring to take a chance on looking out to watch further proceedings.

He was unable to describe any of the hold-ups. The leader, who showed his head inside his car, was a fellow with massive shoulders. That the hold-up was not a robbery is attributed to the fact that they were after. Train No. 97 carried no money, and the robbers carried packages of very little value.

The Dominion Express Company carried the train, and the train was carrying them from here to the east of Dufferin, and when at a point some five miles east of Dufferin, they were ordered to stop by the robbers.

Government Offers Reward. Victoria, June 25.—The provincial government will offer a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the robbers who held up a No. 97 train in a boat, which was found where they landed on Kamloops lake.

ACME BRICK CO. PLANT HAS LARGE DAILY CAPACITY

Visit to Plant of an Entertaining Edmonton Firm Six Miles From Town Along Canadian Northern Railway Line. Operations Begun on May 15th Working Night and Day.

Brick is manufactured in Edmonton on a most stupendous scale and yet few people are aware of it. Six miles out to the west of the city in a secluded spot along the Canadian Northern Railway line, is the location of the Acme Brick Co., which for extent of grounds and capacity of output is a revelation to those who have known nothing whatever of its existence.

A year ago, the Acme Brick Co., which is a limited liability concern, composed of Wm. W. Miller, J. H. Miller, vice president and Robert Spence, secretary, with known contractors of the city, began work on the site of the present yard. The old fashioned "peg mill" run by horse power was then in use. A few thousand bricks were turned out per day, and were set aside for a period of eight or ten days to dry in the sun before being placed in the kiln. The process was slow, tiresome and wasteful. Every brick had to be handled several times, and every time meant money charged to the cost of production.

The company took a cool calculation of the situation. Edmonton, a rapidly growing city, would require millions of bricks in the coming years of its development. The old fashioned "peg mill" would have to go and a modern equipment plant installed in its place. Experts were set to work to examine the clay bed in the district. They declared it as good and uniform a clay deposit as could be found anywhere in the west. The firm, acting on the advice of the experts, purchased a 22 acre block of land at $20 per acre. The land cost money not so much because it was clay, but because a bunch of capitalists wanted to use it in the development of a most important industrial enterprise.

Development Work
No sooner was the purchase made than the clearing of the land began and the first steps were taken in the work of development. The old fashioned "peg mill" was torn down and a modern equipment plant installed in its place. Experts were set to work to examine the clay bed in the district. They declared it as good and uniform a clay deposit as could be found anywhere in the west. The firm, acting on the advice of the experts, purchased a 22 acre block of land at $20 per acre. The land cost money not so much because it was clay, but because a bunch of capitalists wanted to use it in the development of a most important industrial enterprise.

Building Requirements.
An old fashioned brick yard requires very little in the way of buildings. A brick yard on a large scale requires an investment of about $40,000 in buildings and general equipment. The principal building is a "drier." Here, is where the plastic clay, which has taken the shape of bricks after coming through the mill, is placed to dry out in the hot sun, but in a current of dried air, high temperature. A large boiler house and a large engine of 300 horse power is required to keep the mill going and to cause a perpetual circulation of the warm air through the drier. The most important construction of all are the kilns, where as many as 250,000 bricks are actually piled to be burned by the first kiln. Somewhat in the nature of the buildings of the plant are the quarters of the men who are required to live on the premises. In the morning, which is under the supervision of ten fully trained men, the bricks are set down in three substantial mass a day. Provisions are stored in a large refrigerator close at hand. In adjoining store which is open in the morning where the opportunity is given to supply themselves with any little luxuries which they may desire. Above the store is a sign which Noted American Editors Had Their Eyes Opened.

North Bend, B.C. June 22.—"English commercial supremacy has at last been largely based on the position of great mines of iron and coal. On Vancouver Island are vast deposits of these most precious and all minerals; the coal barely tapped, the iron yet entirely untapped."

The foregoing statement was given at the arrival here today, by Henry W. Hyde, political economist and editor of the Technical World Magazine.

MARKETS LOOSEN UP

A close observer of the market condition from week to week has noted that there has been a slight slump in the high prices which have been ruling for farm produce. For several months the market has been in fact everything that the farmer has to offer. The market has been so high that there has been a mutual falling off in the demand. People began to exercise restraint and seemed to buy no more than was absolutely necessary.

The disturbance which has been going on in labor circles in the city has also somewhat lightened the reins of commerce. Stores have noticed a falling off in the demand for the market square has felt that prices had to come down or farm produce would have to be taken home without a purchaser. The result is that all exchange on the market square is at prices considerably easier than a few weeks ago. Hay prices have fallen from $25 and $30 per ton to $20 per ton. Potatoes have taken a decline from $1 and $1.25 per bushel to $1.75 and $2.00 per bushel. Oats are about five cents per bushel lower and vegetables are hitting record bottom prices.

Another cause for the lull in the market is the unexpected advance of the incoming crop. Instead of being late the crops are as far ahead as last year and in many cases have been harvested. The late year provided all continues well. Now hay has made its appearance and at once demonstrated the high prices for old hay. Potatoes will be coming on earlier this year, resulting in holders of old stock being more inclined to ease off on the price. Early produce like the market under the most favorable conditions for the protection of butter and cheese. What has not yet been helped by the high pocket will likely have its turn within another week.

Some heavy showers of rain, accompanied by thunder storms in many cases, have occurred through out the prairie provinces. The "wet" that has been moderate and steady.
